THE MINERAL WEALTH OF GRORGIA.-A CO. spondent of the New York Post, Wrat om Southwest Georgia, makes the followlus interesting and important statements relative

The mineral region of Goorg's is not the cast in attractiveness to the view of the capitalist and the hardy energy of the laborer. This lies principally in the primary formations of the spurs of the Alleghenev mountains, in the northern part of the State, and is destined obecome the scene of the busiest industry—by a start passes applied to economic passes and in the cast of the cast water power applied to economic passes and in the cast of the c the vast water power applied to economic t and the vet untouched forests furnishing t material for the countless buildings which w rise and beautify still more that most magnificent portion of her territory.

In the cuttlers of the main ridge of the Allephanies are f. and the metamorphic slates and quartz-rock, in which gold ores abound; and in ear proximity to these are vast deposits of neiss formations are found rich veius of mag-eicl irou ore, while in the neighborhood of the semantite beds specular ores are found; Indeed, were are of frequent occurrence down the busse of the Chattshoochie rivor, while its indesparkle with gold. Limestone, sulphate barytes and quartz velus containing gold are burytes and quartz velus containing gold are burdent throughout the mineral region. The cligbborhood of the Etowah river is full of iteral, and the iron ores there found and wiked are equal to those of the Heusatonic alley.

micral, and the iron ores there found and worked are equal to those of the Heusatonic valley.

As yet this great mining interest is but partially worked, for our vast iron mines have been opened to a very limited extent, our immense quarries of the best building rock, the everlasting granite, scarcely opened, and our extensive bees of coal, though abundant, have not been touched. In that prollife region of minerals there are but ten iron-works, three of them making pig, four castings, and three wrought iron. Railroads penetrate this rich part of the State capable of bearing away its productions to tide-water, it needs only the capital and energy of the North to open the mines, to erect the works and set the busy wheels of industry and wealth in revolution.

Even at this time the highest wages for skilled later can be obtained here, and although the nears and facilities of living are now scarce std bigh, yet the coming year will see the corneries full and the smoke-houses well stocked with provisions. I cannot give you any certain prices of miners' and laborers' wages in that part of the State, owing to the want of any sestem or expanized work there, the result of the discreanization caused by the war, but that country will be developed.

A SOUTHERN VIEW OF AN IMPORTANT QUE makes the following sensible remarks:

Whatever may have been the advantages to adividuals of African slavery, it would be difficult to discover its benefactions to States and ammunities. Tennessee, Virginla, Kentucky, and North Carolina have contributed ten citizens to Northwestern States for each one given os lavebolding communities. The plrate Semmes's counsel yesterday made application to the Secretary of the Navy to fix the day for the trial of the accused. The Secretary declined to do so for the reason that not a sufficient number of efficients of the proper rank are now unemployed. The counsel engaged for Semmes are Hundres, Peck, and Donver, of Washington, and Pendicton Colston, of Boeton. Semmes is confined to a room in the navy-yard, guarded by sentinels. His meals are brought from a neighboring restaurant. No person excepting one of his counsel is allowed to speak with him. He is quite cheerlui, but enxious for a speedy trial.

He reports that the Indian population of that country are determined on an outbbreak, and had already begun to enter the smaller towns and settlements and drive off cattle in broad day. The reported mischief is said to arise from the scantiness of their supplies from the Government during last year. The military force has been decreased so much that the Indians no longer fear it.

Political parties are now in the process of reorganization—a reorganization which is being reflected without regard to the obsolete quer one of the past. Already, in the halls of Congress, the line is being distinctly drawn between the friends and the enemies of the Constitu ton, the fermer bravely supporting the reco struction policy of President Johnson, and the latter following in the wake of those radical leaders, Sumner and Wilson and Stevens. In view of this fact it behooves the Union men of Kentucky to organize themselves anew the they may effectively co-operate with the true friends of President Johnson, liberal policy now rest the hopes of all Conservative men. For this vital object, we urge the assembling of a Union C avention in the City of Frankfort on the 1st of February next. The convention should embrace delegates from every county in the State, and should fairly represent the Union men of Kentucky without respect to past differences on the dead slavery question.

that they may preserve their identity before the State and the nation, and thereby exert that influence upon the hustings and in the halls of legislation to which they are amply en-

No reason now exists to prevent this cordial re un on of Union men in the midst of us, but there are many substantial and conclusive reasons nrging its immediate importance. We are grati-fied to announce that, since the suggestion of the proposed convention was made in our columns we have heard from many infinential Union men in different parts of the State—those who opposed alike with those who favored the re-Constitutional Amendment-and they heartly inderse the suggestion. Let the ball roll cn; let the toesin of patriotism sound among all our hills and valleys; let meetings e people be rapidly called, and delegates an the rized to the approaching Convention

THE FREEDMEN AND THE PROPLE OF KEN TUCKY -"It is idle to speculate," writes the Hon. S R Mallory, the late Secretary of the Navy of the Confederacy, from Fort Lafavelte. where he is still confined, in a letter just published, 'It is idle to speculate upon the advantages or disadvantages of his freedom to the negro; he can never be re-enslaved." Every sible man, and we may add every patriot in the country will echo the sentiment. There is no power on earth or under it that can re-enslave the negro in the United States. We repeatedly uttered this truth during the late cauvass in this State. The whole power of the Federal Government is pledged to uphold the stitution and carry its provision forever prohibiting slavery into practical effect. An overwhelming majority of the American people would rush to arms on the call of the Govnment to make good that prohibition. Every wrong, wise or unwise, it is a FACT beyon nucstion and beyond cavil.

Another fact equally evident to every reflect ng mind is that the freed people must still remain where they are. A few of them may emi grate to the Northern States, a few may go to Africa, to Mexico, or to the West Indies, or the Canadas, but after making every allowance for there, it will still be true that the freed people as a mass must from absolute necessity remain

I we engrave these two great indisputable acts ineffaceably upon the tablets of our understandings, we shall be in a better frame of m'ad to grapple successfully with the problem tefore us Any attempt to deceive ourselves by raising a fanciful issue that possibly we may be through some hocus-pocus process, to evade the facts, will be so much labor lost, and a good deal worse than lost, because it will make us trouble without affording us any com i ensatirg good.

The facts will remain whatever attempts be made to hide them from view. But we have no idea that any such efforts will be put forth except by very dirty, unscrupulous politicians bo care nothing for the public good or the It he cvil, and who are capable of any thing hat may hold out to them the prospect of pelf or office. That such wretches may be found, we have no doubt because there are villains who will rob graveyards and plunder churches or filch from the orphan. The proper place for each variables is the peritentiary. All honest men of all parties will accept the facts and endesvor to direct their steps by the light which bey shed upon the question which lies be-

The Legislature of Kentneky will assemble in a few days, and am ong the most important du-ties which will devolve npon it will be the legislation proper to the change which has come over the relations of the two races inhabiting

It is of vast importance to the welfare, as well as the peace of the State, that that body should lay aside all party feelings, all prejudices r bitterress, as utterly unworthy the occasion in view of the magnitude of the interests involves, and look with unclouded eyes and calm indements upon the question and treat it in the light of justice and economy. There may be, as there doubtless will be, differences of opinion as to particular provisions of law necessary to meet the new exigencies that have arisen, but here should be an honest effort made to do that which will be for the true interests of both whites and blacks, to act upon the principles of equal and impartial justice to both parties. We hold this truth to be easily demonstrable that the interests, the rest, permanent interests of the two races do not clash, but are identical. That which will be for the interest of one race will promote that of the other. We have neither nor space to elaborate the proposition, but we are as firmly convinced of its truth as of the truths of any abstract proposition that can be submit-ted to human judgment. The freedmen should be thoroughly protected, both in person and They should have the right to appesr in the courts as plaintiffs or defendants and to give evidence. Without these right they will be to a great extent beyond the protection of law, outcasts and vagabonds, upo whom the vicious or malevolent can impos with impunity, which will react disaboth upon them and the people of the State in more wave than we have time to enumerate The Freedmen's Bureau is in the State, and e wish to get rid of it with the least delay po sible. which the Legislature may pass in reference to which the Legislature may pass in reference to the freed people, and the manner in which they shall be executed. If these taws shall be liberal, fair, just, and shall be carried into execu-tion in a cimilar spirit, we believe that we shall soon get rid of the Freedmen's Bureau. But if rwise, if we act under influences of a condrit. the Burean will remain in the State s; and the same remarks will apply to Southern Sister.

The President is pledged to excente the laws of Corgress. He has no discretion in the prem-If a law be passed in opposition to his views and wishes, he is nevertheless bound to execute it. He may veto a bill, but if it be carricd over his veto by the requisite majority, it thus becomes a law, and he is under the same obligations to earry it into effect that he would have been under if it had been in exact accordance with his most cherished opinions.

Every one knows that the radicals in Concress are assailing the Prelident's policy as too liberal to the South. They are doing their worst to break it down and may succeed. If they should, it would be a cruel and a bitter day to the South. The Freedman's Bureau in that case would become permanent institutions in all of the lately slave States. Its powers would be enlarged, and it would become an instrument through which the principles of negro equality would be disseminated, and the horrors of a war of races in the South become imminent. Let Kentucky come to the assistance of the President at this critical moment by framing and executing such a code of laws for the freedmen as shall at once take the wind out of the radical's sails, emasculate their power and floor them. The policy of the President would be immensely strengthened by such a course, and the foundations would be laid, besides, in Kentneky for lasting peace and the greatest amount of prosperity of which she is FUR, CLOTH, and VELVET CAPS, all of the best capable. The course we advocate will be for the best interests of the State, while it will for each at nebly second the President's nobie efforts to restore civil government, and with it prosperit and harmony to the entire South and the whole General Fisk, of the Freedmen's Bareau, has given the freedmen excellent advice in the ad-dress which be published to them—and which has already appeared in the Journal-and we believe that he earnestly desires that the freedmen shall enter into contracts, labor faithfully and conduct themselves properly. He would not be here without the sanction of the Government. Let us by appropriate legislation leave him nothing to do, and thus give the Government the best possible reason for removing the

We trust that the blind blockheads in this State who will give the radicals in Congress aid and comfort by endeavoring to thwart the President's policy and throwing as many obstacles as possible in the way of carrying the rovisions of the amended Constitution into effect, will be found few in number and con emptible in infinence.

HON. JAMES GUTHINE FULLY INDOBSES PRES DENT JOHNSON'S POLICY -In the Senate of the United States, a few days ago, when the reso ntion was rending to appoint a committee or the part of the Senate to confer with a similar committee from the House of Representative on the question of admitting the Representatives from the late rebellions States, Hon, James Guthrie addressed the Senate, bri-fiv but foreibly, in opposition to the committee and in support of President Johnson's restoration policy Mr. Guthrie sustains the whole policy of the President with reference to the re- stablishment of civil government in the South. Speaking of the acts of the President, he said:

I know it has been said that the Pre ident had no authority to do these things. I read the Constitution and the laws of this country differently. He is to "take care that the laws be faithfully executed;" he is to suppress insurrection and rebellion. The power is put in his hands and I do not see why, when he matched into a rebel State, he has not anthority to put down a rebel government and put up a government that is friendly to the United States, and in accordance with it; I do not see why he cannot do that while the war goes on, and I do not see why he may not do it after the war is over. The people in those States lie at the mercy of the ration. I see nousurpation in what he has done, and ready to accept it. Are we sent out a commission to see why the men whem he has appointed have done? It is said that they are not to be relied on; that they have been guilty of treason, and we will not trust them. I hope that no such ideas will prevail here. I think this will be a cold shock to the warm feelings of the nation for restorato the warm feelings of the nation for restoration, for equal privileges, and equal rights. They were in insurrection. We have suppressed that resurrection. We have suppressed that iresurrection. They are now States of the Union; and if they come here according to the laws of the States, they are entitled, in my indement, to representation, and we have no right to write it. laws of the States, they are entitled, in my indepent, to representation, and we have no right to refuse it. They are in a minority, and they would be in a minority even if they meant now what they felt when they raised their arms against the Government; but they do not, and of those whom they will send here to represent them, uineteen ont of twenty will be just as loyal as any of ne-even some of those who took up arms against us.

The foregoing remarks from Senstor Guthrie are sound and patriotic to the core, and we intelligent man in the Southern States knows heartly indorse them. They embrace princithis and every honest man will confess it. The ples upon which all Union men in Kentucky, Right or regardless of differences heretofore existing among them, may cordially unite in support of President Johnson's etatesmanlike and conservative policy in opposition to the destructive programme of the abolition and secession radicals. Let such a union be quickly effected among the Unionists of this State. Our salvation depends upon it.

> The two branches of the City Conneil consisted, at the time of Tomppert's impeachment, almost entirely of old Democrats. Nearly all of the members were voted for and elected by the D mecratle party. They were notoriously and confessedly among the best men the party had. They were the men that the party selected ont to administer the City Govertment. And now if they are the miserable reatures that our neighbor represents them. what is to be thought of the party?

We think, as the Conrier does, that Gen. ee was horest in his atatements of the results of battles, but not that he was more honest than Grant or McClellan or Sherman or Thomas or Sheridan.

A FEMALE STAFF OFFICER.

General Stuart established his headquarters at the house of a citizen whose daughter he had previously known, and regarded as a young lady of very ardent patifolism. Her subsequent conduct did not justify this opinion. In a playful, imprudent manner, the General had bestewed upon her a sort of honorary commission upon his staff, which caused her to be arrested at a somewhat later period by the Federal authorities; but long before the termination of the was riche managed to marry a Yankee officer, and took the cath of allegiance to the Northern Gevillment, thus doubly discrediting the title of which we have republished from time to time. The quantity of booty was very great, and the amount of luxmics absolutely incredible. It was exceedingly amnsing to see here a ragged fellow regaing himself with a hox of pickled oysters or potted lobster; there another unting litto a cheese of enormous siza, or empairs a butle of champagne; while hundreds were engaged in opening the packages of boots and shoes and other clothing, and fitting themselves with articles of appared to replace their own tatiesed garments. The liquors, with a proper degree of precaution, were at once eized by the quanternaster and placed under a strong rund, to avert the consequences of immederate indulgence. Present experience.

We encamped in and around Drainsville, on thendquarters being established in the amp gasden of a hotel in the center of the villing Many of the enemy's wounded having failen into our hands, we had erected a temporary hospital in a shady grove, near a cool, clear spring, where several hundred of them had been received. It may have been that the enemy by accident fired too high, or they may have mitataken this group of men for a body of our troops, but suddenly a heavy fire was concentrated upon this point, and it was indeed a elekthing sight to see shot after shot strike in among them, shell after shell explode over this dense mass of enfierers, who with limbs shattered or lacerated by ghasily wounds, attempted to crawl out of the way, cursing their own friends for the sgonless they had to endure.

I have no power to convey the feeling of enjoyment with which, alter a refreshing hath and the investment of the outward man in clean clothing from head to foot, I lay stretched upon my blanket beneath the shade of a wide-spreading hickory tree. The day was delicious. The breeze came to me burdened with the fragrate of the latest summer flowers, lifting gently my hair and whispering to me from the swaying branches overhead. Even the horses seemed to joinen the general lassifued of the camp. They lay around us in the deep rich grass, which they were too lazy to crop, the very types of perfect physical satisfaction. Among my ritionemen, one had been pointed out to me as the best shot, who was a Prussian by birth, but who had lived for many years on the prairies of Texas. He was the first to fire. Raising his rife, he said to me with a certain pride, a smile lighting up his brown, weather-beaten features, "Now, Major, you shall see what an old Prussian can do." An lustant afterward the erack of the rifle was heard, and the forement of the Federals rolled in the dust, then a second victim fell pierced by the builted fanother Texan, and the told body of Federal cavalry galloped off, amid the tumultuous shouts of Hod's men, and of our own cavalry and cannoneers, who had been looking on with great interest. Unfortunately we could not lay hold of the ridetless horses, which rapidly followed their vanishing companions; but nothing could prevert my Texans from getting their spoils from the dead—a booty, in their opinion, richly merited by them. There can be no doubt but that the r ited States, beside con ing fully and so pt to the expectations of the masses of our grapublican Government. The State annulled is ordinance if secesson without a dissenting roke, and repudiated every farthing of the lebt contracted on behalf the rebellion. Without the least discussion, and with no tributes to its dead careass, the convention declared that slavery did not exist, and should not again exist in the State of Florida, and adopted a constitution radically Republican in its tenor, cuaranteeing to all classes alike the rights of lile, liberty, and property. Rasily, Florida towers above all its sister seceded States, and nothing now remains but for its Legislature to ratify the Constitutional Amendment, which it will do immediately after its organization. Untilke the narrow and bigoted men of the Georgia Convention, the delegates in the Fiorida Convention did their duty manfully and well, and have placed their fabled State in an enviable position remong its erring eisters, which gives cause for special congratulation for its immediate and future nubounced prosperity. Fond hopes ruled the hearts and heads of Flerida's intelligent cons, and they acted wisely and manimonely for the sake of the great interact which they were called upon to faithfully represent.

Too much praise, in this connection cannot be awarded the Provisional Sovernor, William Marvin, whose course for he past few months has been eminently satisfactory to the people of this State, and, I doubt actury to the people of this State, and, I doubt not, acceptable to the General Government. The course of the State, on the whole, will fill the admiration of the President and the great mass of his friends and supporters, who will view her confact as praiseworthy and commendable, while her sister States, who have need hers hearty in their reciprocations for the President's magnatimity, will embrace her with mated in the last battle atone at 6,000 in killed and wounded.

Many a noble fellow breathed his last eigh for the South on the slippery heights of Groveton. The little military family of our own staff had specially to grieve for the loss of one of our number—Captain Hardeman Smart, a nephew of our general, who has charge of the signal corps of our cavalry. Poor Stuart, having been surprised with his party on the morning of the 30th by a body of Federal horse, was only able to escape with two of his men, leaving their apparatus and horses behind. It aching the Confederate lines on foot, just as the battle was commencing, and not being able to render more important service, these three horors selzed each one of the muskets which had been thrown down in large numbers by the enemy in their retreat, and joined the rauks of the Eighteenth Mesissippi Inlantry, which were just moving at a deuble-quick toward the Groveton Heights. There they fell in glorious companionship after the regiment had captured several of the enembes batteries.

Many of the extensive land-owners in Mexico, who own thousauds of acres of the finest land, near the capital and mast the lines of the railroads that are being constructed, have caught the spirit of enterprise, and are offering lor sale, on moderate terms, large portions of their estates. This is in additional stimulus to enterprise. The lands thus put upon the market are the most valuable in Mexico, and although offered at a moderate price now, will be worth ten times the purchase morey ten years hence. Mr. Maury, the commissioner of colonization, has received orders from the Emperor Maximilian to cause these lands to be mapped and surveyed at the expense of the Government, and to furnish each landowner with a copy of the map and survey thus made. This is done in order to facilitate these of such portions of the estates as the owners desire to bring into the market. Acousta, Me., Jan. 4.

Governor Cony was lanagurated to day and delivered his message to the Legislature, referring to the military history of the State during the rebellion, he says: We lurnished 71 558 me., being more than one-tenth of the population of the State. Five regiments and one battelion still remain in the service. The record exhibite the fact that of the scidiers we furnished, 8,446 perished, either being slah in batte or cled of wounds received or disease contracted in the service. hereof.

The State expenditures for war purposes were 7,357,573. The amount advanced by cities and owns for aid to the families of soldiers to Janary 1, 1865, was $1,599,505, which has benefituded by the State, or provision made burefor. refor. Returns received from the cities, towns, and cen expended by the people of Maine for support of the national cause $14 093.57; which they owe to day about $12,000,000, ng puthing about private contributions, where the this way to the support of t threagh their increasity, mave continually flowed as rively as water. The state erjoys a high linancial character, its bonds having been soid in the cleest money market of the year within one or two jer cent as high as the 730 bonds of the United States. The Governor presessing in the consideration of the Legislature the necessity as well as the with a the consideration of the Legislature the necessity as well as the value of adhering to the policy of gradually paying off the public debt through the instrumentality of the sinking fund. He contends that the ludebtedness of the states, including all their municipalities, occasioned by war expenses, should be assumed by argning at some length the present condition of the national affairs.

He takes ground in the support of the President's policy for the return of the revolting States to their relation with the Union. No loval man, he says, would utter a dissent to the relations of the revolted States to the Union upon any other basis than of limiting the exercise of political rights to the actually loyal population of the one which shall fall to secure the recognition of the colored race as freedmen, cougnition of the colored race as lreedm aving equal rights and obligations with the bites, or omits to provide for their moral and Intellectual culture, so indispensable to the cit-izens of the Iree States. The London Times esteems Secretary McCulloch's report a very able document. It is remarkable among similar documents of the States as being grounded on sound financial principles. We recognize in Mr. McCalloch a real financier. But the point in Mr. McClischene which must stake Englishmen most lereibly is the condidence which he invites in the action of the Executive. It asks for unlimited power in the way of lounding a paper currency, and he asks that a simples commence at $15,000,000, and gradually increasing to $10,000 000 may be entrasted to the Government for the time being. That such things should be asked for is supprising, but if the representatives of the tax payers are found willing to grant them, we may well be astonished. Whatever may be the final course of the financial discussion in the States during the correct ression of Congress, it may be watched by us with advantage, as those who are in much the same position may learn from the expericultural Society surpasses any former one. The most splendid pomological specimens are dise same position may learn from the experince of others.

This extraordinary severity is in open contravention to Sheridan's military promise made in the first proclamation on landing at Vera Cruz, dated May 23 1861.

Mr. Romere, in another letter to Sacretary Seward, dated November 20th, says: This barbarons and bloody decree, the most cruel everyte seen, has already been put into exception in 18 how my palutin duty to inform you that on the Lith of October last the Generals Arter ga and Salseta, and Colonels Dease, Paracho, Nitla, Gonicz, Perez Milicuga, and Villanos, five Lieuterant-Colonels, eight commandants, and a number of subordinate officers were surprised and taken prisoners by the French forces in the town of Santa Anna, which appears from the cificial disputch sent to the usurper, of which I enclose you a copy in French which I enclese you a copy in French

FRIDAY, JANUARY 5, 1866. (For the Louisville Sunday Journal.) TO LILA. Thine eyes are bright, thy brow is fair, Thy cheeks are like the rose, And through thy dark luxuriant hair

A joyous beauty flows:
Thy neck the driven snow-flake vice,
Thy smile is like the dawn
That breaks through summer's glowing skles
When moon and stars are gone, Thy voice is like an angel's song, Iny voice is like an angel's song,
And leaves in every heart
A thrill of repture, that must long
Its heavenly joys impart:
And from thy sond, so warm and true,
Such purity beams forth,
Which borne on every breeze, like dew,
Doth gladden all the earth.

Heaven, sweet girl, on thee bestowed A boon bove earthly name -Thy breast where angels seek abode Glows with the poet's flame;

The love-enraplured heart. Thon art the brightest, fairest flower That God to man hath given, And yet as pure In earth's cold hower As those which bloom in Heaven And at life's twilight close Exhale to heaven, thy place of birth, Like fragrance from the rose.

"Thanksqivius Day approaches,"
Four times we sadly said,
"Gives thanks," It was a mockery
Our hearts were with the dead.
Our hearts were with uur country
She sat in worful state,
In ashre and in sacks oth,
Eelrayed and desolate!

And glancing eadly backward Thou those happy days.

Upon those happy days.

When pleasant were her ways,

We would be ward to ward

Not executed the Friends, state:

Our hearts were darkened:
Our hearts were file to break!
And when our toe excelled
What answer could we make?
But now the pall le lifted
And peace a wakes to life,
And hearts so long embitureed, in tease resign the strife! No tannt shall wound the wauderers: Let old di-censions alzep; Let us be giad beguther, Together let us weep! We ebildren of one mother

Meet in a lordin land To pour the wine of gladness, And class the greeting hand Thank to the God of Netional
Thank to the God of Netional
The trai hour is pact;
Our mourn up Motter Country
Lifts up her bend at last—
Our hearts, our hope four fire,
When paper our and a care is the state.

OUR COUNTRY. The following poem was also composed for is occasion, and, by particular request, was ad by the author, the Rev. Mr. Brooks, of ewport, Rhode Island:

Dear Motherland! on thy far shore
To day glad milli ne throng.
The thanks of swelling beauts to pour
In peals of lestal song. Our truant feet have crossed the main, But stul our hearts are there, With kindred leasts to join again In joy, in praise, and prayer.

We praise the God who led our sites Acrose a stortey sea. To light the Western signal fires Or taith and liberty. Through stormler sees—red was of blood— Their taithful sons have passed, And stand, as ransomed lersel stood, High on the store at last. Our Moses, too, like him of old, Beheld, but entered not. The promised had, to faith foretold, By patient yearn as sought.

A higher, holier land is his, B yend life's rest was wave, Le blesses from that seat of bliss The land he died to save.

Such that m ne'er hang around thy shore, Dear native land, as now, Such a lory never shous before Upon thy lofty brow!

And ah! what precious memories pass Upon our hearts to day! What tones and looks of tenderness From homes tar, far away. The music of those well-known bells, The voice of chadren's glee. The tone from roving hearts that wells The gladness of the free. The cheerful gleam of fireside-light,

On happy cheeks poured, and eyes and cheeks that beam more bright Around the social board. How at this hour, a thronging train, Their sacred memorics come, And breathe around our bearts again The atmosphere of home!

Bleet be that home—that happy home— The home of laborty The home of laberty
A greeting o'er the ocean's loain, but a bore, we walt to thee!

Still from thy bold and lofty rock Hold torth a beacon-light, High o'er the surge's maddest shock, To guide the nations right,

To all the sister nations reach A true and friendly band: Fearless and loving, welcome each In ireedom's holy band. Aye wheels of time roll round space, And bring the blessed day When to one God mau's ransomed rac Perennial thanks shall psy. womed race

Idols of passion, power, and pride, Soon from your places fall! Too long have ye the Lord defied And made the world your thrail. Come, blessed Lord of love and light, Come to thy Inner throne; The lamillea of meu nnite, And make them all Thine ewn!

The following Thanksgiving hymn was sung the ture of Old Hundred by the whole com-pany, standing: Rice np. and let each voice proclaim, In solemn tones, the sucred name

Of God, trem whom all blessings rise, In every land beneath the skies. Rise up! and let each soul breathe out In vocal acceuts, pure, devout, The neglecty of Hum who died For us—was mocked and crucified. Shont! that our praise to God may reach Frem hill to hill, from beach to beach, And with our native land's unite, Whilst soaring to the realms of light, Praise Thee, O Grd. for peace, that now Rests on our toved Columbia's brow; Praise, praise for bleatings—numbered bo When stars are counted us to Thee, Thou, who hast known our wants so we'l, shall we frail mostare think to tell. Thee what we need? No! Simply then, "Thy wall be done," amen, amen. [For the Lonisville Sunday Journal.] THE FENIANS.

company, under Grover's guidanea visit Balti-more, Washington, Philadelphia, and Boston. In the letter of a correspondent from New The Tibuue says:

During the season the following operas were giver: Faust, four times; Polinto, twice; Lucrezia Borgla, three times; Ione, four times; Emant, five times; Un Ballo in Maschera, twice; Trovatore, three times; I Puritani, twice; Martha, three times; Travlata, once; Lucia di Lammermoor, once; Norma, three times; Robert le Diable, three times; Rigoletto, ouce; Fra Disvalo, four times; Den Glovanni, once; La Sunnambula, once; Crispino e la Comare, tweive times; and L'Atricaine, nine times During the whole of the season there has not heen one disappointment, except the clesing of the Opera house on the night of Rovere's death; none of the siggers have been or have pretended to be sick, and every promise has been fulfilled, both in the spirit and the letter.

Every work has been produced in good style, with competent artists and proper regard to detalls, and the season closed with the best possible itecting between the public, the artists, and York to the Louisville Democrat, signed "K," and occasionally elsewhere, I see most unjust and ungenerous allusions to the Fenlan Brothers that tend to warp the public indoment woman's hand to defeud them that I appear in their behalf, but because I am an American, proud al my country and my countrymen; and I can hut think with shame and regret of those who, enjoying the blessings of liberty themseives, seek to hold down a struggling and brave people who strive for theirs. Cordemning the Fenians, we consure our forefathers, who rebelled under the British yoke and tore the rose of England from their banners' folds to crown it with the stars Ab, who took that detalls, and the senson closed with the best pos-sible feeting between the public, the artists, and the manager, as was evidenced by the superb basket of flowers presented to Zucchl on the last night, and the cestly plate presented to Max Maretzek, together with a letter fully instarry llag straight up to the guns at Richmond and kept it there, who fought side hy side on many a hard-won battle field with Americans. and who now lie in one grave with our nation's dorsing his managerial course and expressive of the numest confidence and respect from a majority of the influential and wealthy habitues dead, having given their hearts' blood freely to the free, but Irtshmen! brave Irishmen, worthy descendents of the heroes of Fontenov! Ungrateful, ungenerous people, who would not give them space to act for themselves on the very soil their hrothers died tor!

nav be esteulated that the mission to if New York have expended upon admission to the opera alone during the past three months, very clere upon $200,000. that the Fenians assemble as a Senate or arm as a military power in America, and they ask no aid not cheerfully given; they seek no hand not freely extended. If all do not smile upon them, why should they frown? In the right they hope to conquer, and Heaven's berison rests on them offered neath the wgis of our liberty to the oppressed of all nations, and among the exiles to cur shore were many from Erin's Isle. And where are noble eltizens, more zeaious of the public welfare or more generous to its wants? In the halis of Congress, in the puipit, in the speeches were delivered, and the festive scene merchant's ware rooms, wearing the judicial synoptical report of the interesting proceedings | Among them are some who may not join the Fenlan army, hat they give to their hrothers hands, that else were 1 owerless, the golden key to success. Yet, there are other adopted citizens who. I see stated in a telegram from New York city, have announced their intention of "applying for indictments of the President. Senate, and Cabinet of the embryo Irish Reublic." (b!
